WOOL PRESS BOOK AMONG CANNIBALS

Seventh-Day Adventists Open Spring Council at Takoma Park Tomorrow.

How certain cannibals of the southern Pacific islands in a superstitious fervor deliberately inoculate perfectly healthy children with the germs of a disease which causes skin eruptions for about six years is told by Elder C. H. Watson, Seventh-day Adventist missionary, who is a delegate to the annual spring council of the general conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, March 29 to April 7, at Takoma Park.

Elders Watson and C. K. Meyers, the latter also a traveler among various savage tribes, tell of remarkable transformations that have come in the lives of cannibals after accepting the gospel of Christ taught to them by the missionaries.

Medical Aid Needed.

Pointing out that a "mighty work for the uplift of humanity can be accomplished if medical missionaries are sent among the inhabitants of these South Sea Islands," Elder Watson described how one superstition is that of having mothers inoculate their children with disease. A child must suffer agony for six years before he is finally cured of its ravages, he learned.

Every state in the Union and every province in Canada will be represented at the order tomorrow morning in the administration building by President A. G. Daniels, president of the denomination, and a large number of the medical, educational, publishing and evangelistic departments will be discussed.

Among leaders in the church scheduled to attend are:

Church Leaders Here.

A. G. Daniels, president of the general conference; E. E. Andrews, president of the Washington conference; W. A. Spicer, J. H. Shaw and E. E. Bowen, secretaries; F. M. Wilcox, editor of the Review and Herald; C. S. Longacre, secretary of the religious liberty department; W. Z. Town, W. W. Eastman, J. H. McEachern of the publishing department; M. E. Kern, C. A. Russell, Mrs. E. E. Andrews and Mrs. Harriet Holt of the young people's department; Miss L. F. Plummer, J. S. James and Miss Rosamond D. Ginter of the Sabbath school department; C. V. Leach, H. K. Christman, E. R. Numbers and Mrs. J. W. Mace of the home missionary department; W. E. Howell, Otto John, Mrs. Flora Williams and Miss Sara E. Peck of the educational department; A. Hansen, Dr. H. W. Miller, Dr. G. H. Head and Dr. D. D. H. Cross of the medicine department; G. B. Thompson and W. W. Prescott, field missionaries; E. R. Palmer, general manager of the Review and Herald; J. L. McElhane of Nashville, Tenn., president of the Southern Union Conference; W. H. Heckman of Chattanooga, Tenn., president of the Southern Union Conference; S. E. Wright of College View, Neb., president of the Central Union Conference; J. Christian of Glendale, Calif., president of the Pacific Union Conference; A. E. O'Brien of Chicago, Ill., president of the North Pacific Union Conference; E. K. Slade of South Lancaster, Mass., president of the Atlantic Union Conference; E. R. Robbins of Takoma Park, president of the Columbia Union Conference; E. T. Russell of St. Paul, Minn., president of the Northern Union Conference; Morris Lukens of Oklahoma City, Okla., president of the Southwestern Union Conference; A. C. Gilbert of Calgary, Canada, president of the Western Canadian Union Conference; and W. W. Smith of Vancouver, B. C., president of the Eastern Canadian Union Conference.

It is reported that Lenin realizes under a delicate structure he is building the new trade agreements, for in one of his recent speeches he admitted that recognition of free trade closely resembles the recognition of capitalistic principles. However, he believes that in the last three years of Russia has become deeply impregnated with communism, and therefore he is willing to take this chance.

In Finland at least a dozen plans are under way for resuming trade with Russia. The co-operative societies, which are powerful throughout Finland, are ready to deal through the government with a Soviet commission and will probably furnish large quantities of food. While the Soviets keep Maxim Litvinov in Reval, they intend using their influence to secure the release of Finnish ports which are usable for consignments of goods.

Offers Greater Freedom.

Having, as he thinks, completely pacified Russia, Lenin now offers a greater political freedom, declaring that his political adversaries have given him greater latitude. All these statements are interpreted by some conservative observers as mere trickery, but it is evident that Lenin is endeavoring to modify their rules to prevent disruption.

WANTS AMERICAN CAPITAL

Russia Far Eastern Republic Promises Adequate Guarantees.

PEKING, March 27.—M. Younin, head of the Russian Far Eastern republic mission, has petitioned the Washington government on behalf of the "Chita" administration through Charles R. Crane, American minister to China, to receive a mission for the purpose of effecting a rapprochement for the promotion of commercial relations and influencing American capital to develop Siberian resources.

The petition gives assurance for the security of investments on the basis of inviolability of private property. It lays stress on the independent and representative character of the government of the Far Eastern republic, which, it says, will be controlled by an assembly which will be elected by universal suffrage. It also invites a similar mission from the United States to visit Chita.

IN MEMORIAM.

BINNEY. In sad and loving remembrance of our dear husband, EDWARD BINNEY, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1919.

Whose heart was constant and true. One who was the same at all times. Loved Edna that was his dear wife. YOUR DEVOTED WIFE JULIA. FATHER AND MOTHER.

BROOKER. In sad and loving remembrance of our dear sister, LILLIAN BROOKER, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1919.

Today recalls a memory of a loved one. And those who still remember her. Are those who loved her best. HER DEVOTED SISTER AND CHILDREN.

BROOKS. In sad and loving remembrance of my father, T. H. BROOKS, who passed away two years ago today, March 28, 1919.

Can I help from feeling so lonely. When I think of you, my dear father. Your memory is ever before me. I can feel your hands in mine. The love you always gave me. Still lingers in my mind.

CAMPBELL. In sad and loving remembrance of our dear daughter, LILLIAN CAMPBELL, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1919.

The month of March once more bereaves. To me your memory is ever before. Because three years ago today my loving daughter passed away. Your sweet face is ever before me. I can feel your hands in mine. The love you always gave me. Still lingers in my mind.

I was not with you when you died. I know not how you passed away. Sad and lonely is my heart today. When I think how suddenly you passed away. Sleep on, dear Lillian, and take your rest. I love you still, but God loved you best. I think of you in silence, no eyes see weep. But many a tear I shed while others sleep.

CREEK. In sad and loving remembrance of my dear grandmother, SARAH CREEK, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1919.

Today recalls the memory of a loved one. And those who think of her. Are those who loved her best. HER DEVOTED GRANDDAUGHTER, MARY CREEK.

DOWLING. In loving memory of our dear husband and father, WILLIAM A. DOWLING, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1919.
